DEAR ATTENDEES:

Welcome to Salt Lake City! We are delighted to have you join us for the annual meeting of the American Association for State and Local History.

The Local Host and Program Committees created a terrific meeting experience for you, including speakers, sessions, tours, an outstanding exhibit hall, and evening events that are the perfect combination of fun and education. We are sure you will enjoy this first-rate professional development and networking opportunity, and hope you take part in as many events as possible.

Your registration packet contains many important items. Be sure to look through it carefully for notices and program updates. If you have any questions, don’t hesitate to ask one of the many volunteers working at the meeting. You can spot them by the ribbons they wear:

- Purple – Volunteer Staff
- Maroon – AASLH Council Members
- Cream – Host Committee
- Pink – Program Committee

Please take the time to thank our sponsors and exhibitors for their role in making this meeting useful and affordable. These dedicated professionals are here to bring you products and services that will help you in your important work. They also enable us to keep your registration fee the best deal in the country!

On behalf of AASLH and the dozens of volunteers who have worked so hard to bring you this event—have fun and remember that we are here to make this meeting a special experience for you. Don’t hesitate to let us know how we can help.

Sincerely,

Terry L. Davis
President and CEO
AASLH
The 2012 Annual Meeting of the American Association for State and Local History will consider the sometimes empowering, sometimes challenging, but always special connection between people and place. Inspired by Salt Lake City and guided by the theme; Crossroads: Exploring the Vibrant Connections Between People and Place, we hope this meeting will facilitate your discovery of the personal, communal, and organizational journeys that lead to vibrancy, authenticity, health, and happiness, and expand your understanding of how these journeys support meaningful and impactful social change.

While in Utah, we hope you take time to explore the many historical treasures in the state. Utah's natural and American Indian history is on view at the new Utah Museum of Natural History and at Red Butte Gardens. Utah’s Mormon history is glimpsed at historic Temple Square, the LDS Church History Museum, and Brigham Young's Beehive and Lion houses. One can sense the early conflict between Mormon settlers and federal authority at the Fort Douglas Military Museum. The magnificent historic mansions and the Masonic Temple introduce us to early mining barons, and a visit to the Park City Museum continues the story of mining in Utah. Also, for those interested in family history, the Family History Library is the world's largest genealogy library, and the Division of State History and State Archives is just blocks away.

The 2012 AASLH Annual Meeting includes a great selection of sessions, evening events, and tours that are packed with opportunities to learn, network, and enjoy. Be inspired and energized by our keynote speaker, Pat Croce. Listen to plenary speaker Laurel Thatcher Ulrich who will speak about her recent study of nineteenth-century Mormon diaries, a project that returns her to her western roots. Make plans to attend the awards banquet to hear Utah historian and writer Will Bagley and honor the best in the field of state and local history.

We hope that the AASLH 2012 Annual Meeting energizes you, expands your knowledge, helps you make connections between the present and the past, and allows you to discover resources for the work you do in the field of state and local history.

Sincerely,

Scott M. Stroh, III

PAT CROCE, our keynote speaker, graced the cover of Success magazine as the first person to ascend from the training room to the boardroom of a professional sports team. His remarkable success as a physical therapist and pioneer in the sports medicine field to the colorful leader responsible for the resurrection of the Philadelphia 76ers as an NBA championship contender has been defined as one of the most amazing stories in sports history. He also has a deep interest in the field of history, especially pirate history. Croce is the founder of the world-renowned St. Augustine Pirate & Treasure Museum. He is Chairman of Pat Croce & Company and a nationally known motivational speaker.

LAUREL THATCHER ULRICH will deliver the plenary address in Salt Lake City. She grew up in the Rocky Mountain west, but has spent most of her adult life in New England. She is the author of many articles and books on early American history, including A Midwife’s Tale, which won the Pulitzer Prize for History in 1991 and became the subject of a PBS documentary and an award-winning website, dohistory.org. She has frequently consulted for museums and historical societies and during the last ten years has written and taught courses on the use of ordinary objects as sources for history. Her 2001 book, The Age of Homespun, is organized around fourteen domestic items, including a linen tablecloth, two Indian baskets, and an unfinished stocking. Her recent work includes Well-behaved Women Seldom Make History (Knopf 2007) and Tangible Things, a 2011 exhibit of artworks and artifacts from Harvard’s many collections. She is now completing a study of nineteenth-century Mormon diaries, a project that returns her to her western roots and provides the material for her plenary address. Professor Ulrich is past President of the American Historical Association and is currently 300th Anniversary University Professor at Harvard University.

WILL BAGLEY, Awards Banquet speaker, has written and edited more than twenty books on overland emigration, frontier violence, railroads, mining, the creation of digital search engines, and the Mormons. Born in Utah, he attended Brigham Young University and was a President’s Scholar at the University of California at Santa Cruz, where he studied writing. Between 2000 and 2004, the Sunday Salt Lake Tribune published more than 200 of his columns and articles. His work has received awards from many organizations including Western Writers of America, Western History Association, and National Cowboy & Western Heritage Museum and he received the Merrill J. Mattes Award for Excellence in Writing. Mr. Bagley was a Wallace Stegner Centennial Fellow at the University of Utah and the Archibald Hannah Jr. Fellow in American History at Yale University. He has appeared in more than two-dozen documentary films, notably Helen Whitney’s The Mormons on PBS’s American Experience. He lives and works in Salt Lake City.

CONNECTING TO COLLECTIONS CONTINUING CONVERSATIONS EXCHANGE

The 2012 AASLH Annual Meeting includes the second and final Connecting to Collections Continuing Conversation Exchange. AASLH is pleased to welcome the participants in this Exchange to Salt Lake City. Through this project, the Texas State Library and Archives Commission and its partners, including AASLH and Heritage Preservation, hope to add value to the Connecting to Collections Initiative, to expand the opportunities for continuing professional development for cultural heritage experts responsible for statewide collections care planning and education, and to develop the resources needed for us all to be good citizens when it comes to preserving our history. This project is made possible by a grant from the Institute of Museum and Library Services to the Texas State Library and Archives Commission and its grant partners.

Connecting to Collections Continuing Conversation Exchange attendees will enjoy Wednesday evening’s keynote speaker, Eileen Hallet Stone, a professional oral historian and award-winning author of over 200 articles on minority cultures, environmental issues, family dynamics, life challenges, and history. Collected stories in her book A Homeland in the West: Utah Jews Remember were developed into a photo-documentary exhibit that was shown as part of the 2002 Winter Olympic Cultural Olympiad Arts Festival and traveled statewide. Her earlier book, Missing Stories: An Oral History of Ethnic and Minority Groups in Utah, co-authored with Leslie Kelen, added substantially to Utah’s educational curriculum. Hallet Stone is a Public Square speaker for the Utah Humanities Council and writes a monthly Living History column for the Salt Lake Tribune.

Park City
8 am–5 pm
COST: $75

Spend the day discovering Park City and find out how two small museums have reinvented themselves to deal with seasonal tourism while staying connected to the local community. First stop is the Utah Olympic Park. Visit the 2002 Olympic Museum, stand at the top of the K120 ski jump, meet an Olympic athlete, and hear the thrill in winning a medal. Next stop is Historic Park City. Visit the National Register-listed Historic Main Street on a docent-led tour, explore the town’s silver mining history at the Park City Museum, and go shopping in the beautiful resort town.

Utah is the only state whose capital’s name is made of three words.

Rails2Rockets: Utah’s Transportation Crossroads
8 am–5 pm
COST: $75

Utah has served as the crossroads of the West and a connection to the cosmos. The Transcontinental Railroad was joined here and Space Shuttle rockets were developed here. All Aboard, for this exciting tour that will take you from the driving of the Golden Spike to blast off of the Space Shuttle in the span of a single day. Be guided through a century of railroad history at the Union Station Museum and the Golden Spike National Historic Site and then talk to real rocket scientists about their work while exploring ATK’s Rocket Garden.

Corporate History Tour
1–5 pm
COST: $30

Join the AASLH Corporate History Affinity Group to investigate the records of two corporate archives. The tour will first visit the archives of the nonprofit Sundance Institute located in downtown Salt Lake City. Robert Redford and some friends and colleagues founded the Institute in 1981 to create “an environment to foster independence, discovery, and new voices in American film.” Attendees will learn of its beginnings, holdings, and future plans. The tour will next travel to the University of Utah and examine the records of the Rocky Mountain Power and the Kennecott Company housed at the modern facilities of the Marriott Library’s Special Collection. Enjoy a behind-the-scenes view of its holdings, operations, policies, and its interaction with its corporate clients. The tour is followed by a reception.

To Dance, To Sing, To Live: A Cultural Tour
2–4 pm
COST: $30

This walking tour of downtown Salt Lake City will introduce the story of its founding and spotlight the people and places that reflect its cultural heritage. The tour will spotlight the city’s first mansion, performance centers including the Capitol Theater and the Mormon Tabernacle, historic homes, important business and finance structures, LDS Church buildings, and many more.
THURSDAY, OCTOBER 4

History and Faith: Historic Temple Square
7–8 am
COST: $15
Located in the heart of downtown Salt Lake City, Temple Square is the most visited site in the state of Utah. Join colleagues for an early morning walk, tour the historic buildings of the block, including the world-famous Tabernacle, home of the Mormon Tabernacle Choir, and learn of the story of the construction of the Salt Lake Temple. A quick visit to the Beehive House, the home of Brigham Young, will conclude the tour.

South Temple: Utah’s Millionaire Row
8:30 am–12:30 pm
COST: $30
Named as one of the Best Streets in America in 2009, South Temple has been known as Utah’s first prominent residential address. Beginning in 1855, merchandisers, mining magnates, and bankers started construction of architectural masterpieces on South Temple to display their wealth including the Kearns Mansion, Walker Mansion, Downey Mansion, and Armstrong House. Enjoy a stroll up South Temple while touring several of these restored mansions within one of Utah’s earliest historic districts and come away knowing why South Temple is Utah’s Millionaire’s Row.

Three Billion Years of History on One Island
1:30–6:30 pm
COST: $30
Situated in the middle of the remnants of an ancient ocean, Antelope Island boasts three billion-year-old geologic formations, a unique salt water/freshwater ecosystem, world class bird-watching, one of the country’s largest bison herds, a historic ranch, and the longest continually occupied Euro-American residence in the state of Utah. Explore all these things and more in this afternoon tour.

FRIDAY, OCTOBER 5

Wendover and the Mysterious West Desert
8 am–5 pm
COST: $75
Spend a day investigating the mysteries of the Great Salt Lake, Utah’s West Desert, and the community of Wendover. The tour begins at the Great Salt Lake with a presentation on its historical and geological significance. The tour continues with a visit to a National Historic Site, the Benson Gristmill. Continue across the West Desert viewing the remnants of the ancient Lake Bonneville to Wendover. Attendees will see Danger Cave, a cluster of dry caves that contained archaeological remains dating more than 11,000 years ago. Next, experience the Bonneville Speedway, the site of countless land speed records. Enjoy lunch at a West Wendover casino followed by a tour of the World War II Wendover Airfield where air crews trained to drop atomic bombs on Japan. Finally, the tour will return to West Wendover to spend time for a little gambling and shopping time.

Religious Intentions and Interactions: Architecture and City Planning
8:30 am–12:30 pm
COST: $30
This tour examines the interaction and reaction between Mormons, Roman Catholics, Protestants, and other faiths evidenced in the religiously constructed environment in Salt Lake City. The tour will be led by three subject specialists in local and American architecture and preservation: Brad Westwood, former Chair of Special Collections, Brigham Young University, and historian, Paul L. Anderson, architect, exhibit designer, and historian, and Ray Luce, former state preservation officer, historian, and now volunteer employee for the LDS Church Historic Sites Division.

SATURDAY, OCTOBER 6

Richest Hole on Earth: The Bingham Canyon Mine
1–5 pm
COST: $30
Spend Saturday afternoon examining Utah’s mining history and seeing a working mine. This tour will visit two community mining museums, the Bingham Canyon Mine, (the world’s largest human excavation), the community of Copperton, a company town for the miners of the Bingham Canyon mine, and the Bingham Cemetery.

The name “Utah” comes from the Native American “Ute” tribe and means People of the Mountains.

WEDNESDAY, OCTOBER 3

Historic Capitol Hill
6:30–9 pm
COST: $45

Explore the history of The Church of Jesus Christ of Latter-day Saints at The Church History Museum located in Temple Square. In the exhibit, A Covenant Restored, see artifacts documenting the history of the Church from its beginnings in upstate New York, the publication of the Book of Mormon, the efforts of Joseph Smith to establish communities in Ohio, Missouri, and Illinois, and its westward trek to the Great Basin under the leadership of Brigham Young. Attendees will enjoy light appetizers and non-alcoholic drinks before proceeding to the historic McCune Mansion for hors d’oeuvres, dessert, and beverages. Early American entrepreneur and railroad tycoon Alfred W. McCune built the Mansion as his family home. The building of the McCune Mansion began in 1898 and was completed at a cost of $1 million in 1901. Noteworthy interior details, shipped from around the world, include rare materials, such as Utah onyx, Nubian and Irish marble, French tapestries, and South American mahogany. The exterior was built of native Utah sandstone and the roof, covered with tiles made in the Netherlands. Admire gold leaf hand gilding, exquisite murals, decorative scagliola, and detailed artwork echoing century-old brushstrokes. The McCarthey Family purchased the Mansion in 1999 and generously returned the mansion to its original architectural splendor and exemplary workmanship while faithfully preserving its historical legacy and community prominence.

THURSDAY, OCTOBER 4

A Stroll through Time: The Natural History Museum of Utah
6:30–9 pm
COST: $45

Cross the threshold into the newly opened Natural History Museum of Utah and enter the soaring sixty-foot canyon atrium that forms the centerpiece for the nine terraced exhibition galleries—including Past Worlds through the Native Voices and upward to the Sky Terrace. In November 2011, the Natural History Museum of Utah opened a new facility, the Rio Tinto Center, with entirely new exhibit galleries, engaging programs for the public, and state-of-the-art collections care and research facilities. Enjoy regional food, performances, and music, and—above all—marvel at the panoramic valley vistas as the sun sets in the western sky over the Great Salt Lake.

FRIDAY, OCTOBER 5

Leadership in History Awards Banquet
6:30–9:30 pm
COST: $55

Join AASLH in honoring the best in state and local history at the 2012 Leadership in History Awards. Will Bagley, one of America’s foremost authorities on western trail history and the Mormon settlement of the Great Basin, will provide the banquet address. The evening will also include dinner and a lively awards presentation.
Best Practices for Slavery Interpretation

COST: $75

Room: 257B

Increase your capacity to create comprehensive and conscientious interpretations of slavery. Learn tips for connecting to and extending beyond your site’s complex history of slavery; training to help staff achieve a greater understanding of the difficult knowledge and navigate surrounding complicated emotions; and tools to inventory current interpretations and how to evaluate new techniques.

Chair: Kristin Gallas, Director of Education and Public History, The Tracing Center on Histories and Legacies of Slavery, Watertown, MA; Tricia Brooks, Manager of African American Initiatives, Colonial Williamsburg Foundation, Williamsburg, VA; Conny Graft, Principal, Conny Graft Research and Evaluation, Williamsburg, VA; Julie Rose, Director, West Baton Rouge Museum, Port Allen, LA

Interpretive Exhibits: Telling Our Stories on a Shoestring

COST: $75

Location: Fort Douglas Military Museum

Museums of any size can create inexpensive interpretive exhibits that excite, engage, and educate visitors. This hands-on workshop geared to small history museums shows an integrated approach to telling the stories of collections and communities. Learn how to research, design, and produce interpretive exhibits supported by best practice educational strategies.

Chair: Megan van Frank, Historical and Museum Programs, Utah Humanities Council, Salt Lake City, UT; Laurel Casjens, Private Consultant, Salt Lake City, UT; Virginia Catherall, Director of Public Programs/ Curator of Education, Utah Museum of Fine Arts, Salt Lake City, UT

New Roles for Small Museums: Engaging Community and Moving Toward Relevance

COST: $75

Room: 260B

Designed for teams of board members, directors, staff, and volunteers, explore the content in the new Small Museum Toolkit chapter, on “New Roles for Small Museums.” This interactive workshop covers forces for change, what community engagement is, who we should engage, guidelines and steps, case studies, evaluation, dialogue tools, and new roles.

Chair: Candace Tangorra Matelic, Ph.D., President, CTM Professional Services, Santa Fe, NM
To attract and hire candidates that are connected to your site through personal inspiration.

2012 CEO Forum

Crossroads: Exploring Vibrant Connections Between People and Place

COST: $150/$222 FOR TWO FROM SAME ORGANIZATION

Room: Radisson Hotel, Parleys 1–2

This year’s Annual Meeting theme, Crossroads: Exploring Vibrant Connections Between People and Place invites us to think about our organizations: the places they hold within their communities; their value and distinctiveness; their connections to individuals and to constituents; and their ability to effect change and to be affected by change. In this vein, this year’s CEO Forum will encourage the leaders of large history organizations to think about their place or role within the organization, how they impart value, how they can bring about change, and how they connect both internally (governing boards, employees, and volunteers), and externally as the personification of the organization. Registration is open to CEOs and Senior Executives of large history organizations.

Chair: Burt Logan, CEO, Ohio Historical Society, Columbus, OH

Field Services Alliance Meeting

COST: FREE

Begin the annual meeting at this engaging breakfast where you can network with peers in the field of education and interpretation. The breakfast will include discussions about current issues facing museum educators and interpreters. Participants will have the opportunity to discuss their questions, concerns, and dilemmas. The roundtable will have something for educators at all stages of their careers and from institutions large and small.
Chair: Tobi Voigt, Director of Education, Detroit Historical Society, Detroit, MI

8:30–9:45 am

CONCURRENT SESSIONS

Bad Boards, Bad Boards, What’cha Gonna Do? Strategies for Fixing Poorly Functioning Museum Boards
► Room: 355B
Directors of small history museums will share their experience in making positive changes in poorly functioning boards with solutions that include team building, community involvement, and the difficult issue of removing a member from the board.
Chair: Janice Klein, Consultant, EightSixSix Consulting, Tempe, AZ; Susan Goganian, Director, Beverly Historical Society, Beverly, MA; Rebecca A. Mavencamp, Director, Rockford Area Historical Society, Rockford, MN; Jim McCreight, President, Museum Trustee Association, Washington, DC

Connecting to Collections: Tools You Can Use—The Sequel!
► Room: 255A
Building on the success of the 2011 AASLH Annual Meeting session “Connecting to Collections: Tools You Can Use,” this sequel provides information on new initiatives/key developments from existing statewide preservation programs. Speakers will discuss advances in preservation fundraising, disaster planning, and collections value assessment, and how results can benefit the community.
Chair: Tom Clareson, Senior Consultant for Digital and Preservation Services, Lyrasis, Westerville, OH; Nichole Doub, Head Conservator, Maryland Archaeological Conservation Laboratory, St. Leonard, MD; Celeste DeWald, Executive Director, California Association of Museums, Santa Cruz, CA; Paula T. Work, Registrar and Curator of Zoology, Maine State Museum, Augusta, ME

The Importance of a Digital Strategy
► Room: 155A
Most history institutions do not follow a technology strategy and as a result they flounder in the constantly changing technology landscape. All institutions, whatever size or budget, need to think strategically about technology. In-depth conversation with two leaders in the field will help you craft a digital strategy you can maintain and will help identify potential funding sources.
Chair: Tim Grove, Chief of Education, Smithsonian National Air and Space Museum, Washington, DC; Nik Honeysett, Head of Administration, J. Paul Getty Museum, Los Angeles, CA; Rose Sherman, Director/CIO Enterprise Technology and Business Development, Minnesota Historical Society, St. Paul, MN

New Crossroads at the Intersection of Public and Private
► Room: 355A
Public-private partnerships are often cited as the solution to current institutional and financial constraints and the reduction of government support for history. Leaders of public and private history organizations discuss old and new models and the opportunities and challenges they present for the future.
Chair: Barbara Franco, Executive Director, Gettysburg’s Seminary Ridge Museum, Gettysburg, PA; David Donath, President/CEO, Billings Farm and Museum, Woodstock, VT; Burt Logan, Executive Director, Ohio Historical Society, Columbus, OH
Passing the Torch of Leadership to a Younger Generation

Room: 155D
Small museums with few full-time staff members usually rely on post-retirement age volunteers. When the individuals who have run these institutions for many years step down, many are replaced with professionally-trained paid staff. Also, many seasoned professionals are planning for retirement and younger professionals are moving into leadership positions. Join this session and learn how these different generations learn from each other and work together to make for a smooth transition for the organization.

Chair: Daniel Schlegel, Jr., Executive Director, Scary County Museum, Snyder, TX; Gary Waithath, Executive Director, Rocky Mount Historical Association and Museum, Piney Flats, TN; Donald P. Zuris, Head Curator, Corpus Christi Museum of Science and History, Corpus Christi, TX

Save Time with Effective Meetings

Room: 355C
Do you feel that most meetings at your institution are a waste? Do you want to gain at least four hours of productive time a week? Let us show you how! Everyone complains about meetings, but few work to improve them. Learn easy steps to make meetings both shorter and more effective.

Chair: Trevor Jones, Director, Museum Collections and Exhibitions, Kentucky Historical Society, Frankfort, KY; Linnea Grim, Hunter J. Smith Director of Education and Visitor Programs, Monticello, Thomas Jefferson Foundation, Charlottesville, VA

Small Museums, Big Impact!

Room: 355D
Representatives from three small museums will share their successful experiences in developing exhibitions focused on members of their local community. These exhibits serve as role models of how a small museum can play a significant role in recognizing the achievement of local residents in, or their connections to, the wider world.

Chair: Paul Katz, Ph.D., Principal, PRIAM, Panhandle, TX; David W. Dexter, Executive Director, Neenah Historical Society, Neenah, WI; Shawn Lum, Executive Director, Vacaville Museum, Vacaville, CA; Sandra Morrison, Executive Director, Park City Museum, Park City, UT

Thinking About Grad School? What, Where, and How?

Room: 155E
The graduate school options available to history professionals are bewildering. MA, MAT, MBA, MPH, Ph.D.? History, American studies, museum studies, public history, archives, museum education? Full- or part-time? Live or online? This is not a showcase for graduate programs, but a frank discussion of options and their pros and cons.

Chair: Laura Roberts, Adjunct Faculty, Bank St. College of Education and Harvard Extension School, Cambridge, MA; Jane Becker, Internship Coordinator and Instructor, History Department, University of Massachusetts, Boston, MA; Marilyn J. Sklar, Director of Education and Communications, Rosson House Museum, Phoenix, AZ; Lawrence Verdon, President and CEO, Strawberry Banke Museum, Portsmouth, NH

Twilight at Conner Prairie: The Creation, Betrayal, and Rescue of a Museum

Room: 155C
This session is a book discussion on Twilight at Conner Prairie: The Creation, Betrayal, and Rescue of a Museum by Berkley W. Duck, III. Participants will have the opportunity to discuss issues raised and lessons learned from this case study of Conner Prairie and its split from Earlham College in 2005. Sponsored by the National Council on Public History.

Chair: Melissa Bingmann, Assistant Professor of History/Director of Public History, West Virginia University, Morgantown, WV; David Allison, Manager of Visitor Programs, Denver Museum of Nature and Science, Denver, CO

When History Hits the Road: Mobile Museums

Room: 155B
Learn from Pennsylvania’s and Virginia’s mobile museum experiences as staff talk about their goals for the mobile museums and lessons from their travels. The IMLS-funded evaluator for the Pennsylvania project will share what the project has learned about maximizing public interest in the Civil War for new audience development.

Chair: James M. Vaughan, Executive Director, Pennsylvania Historical and Museum Commission, Harrisburg, PA; Dale Jones, Principal, Making History Connections, Glenwood, MD; John R. Selten, Civil War Project Manager, Pennsylvania Heritage Society/PHMC, Harrisburg, PA

Room: 255C
Directors and CEOs of organizations of all sizes are invited to lunch for networking and discussion. The Center for the Future of Museums recently issued TrendsWatch 2012 on seven trends that will shape our future. Consultant Laura Roberts will lead attendees in a discussion on these hot topics. Topics will include how we can monitor changes in our community and consider the implications for our organizations and how can board and staff help scan the horizon and think about creative responses.
Chair: D. Stephen Elliott, Director and CEO, Minnesota Historical Society, St. Paul, MN

Beyond History: Expanding Your Education Offerings
Room: 155A
The Creative Learning Factory, the professional development arm of the Ohio Historical Society, will demonstrate ways participants can utilize history collections to provide education opportunities beyond history by focusing on the arts and humanities. While the emphasis will be on outreach to K-12 educators, the programming examples may also be used directly with students.
Chair: Stacia Kuceyeski, CEO of Creative Learning, Creative Learning Factory at the Ohio Historical Society, Columbus, OH; Mark Butler, Creative Learning Engineer, Creative Learning Factory at the Ohio Historical Society, Columbus, OH; Molly Uline-Olmstead, Creative Learning Engineer, Creative Learning Factory at the Ohio Historical Society, Columbus, OH

Educators and Interpreters Showcase
Room: 155E
This session enables participants to join themed discussions on various relevant topics, set up as six mini-roundtables. Each table will be manned by a facilitator with experience on topics including the changing museum field trip, education outreach strategies, new trends in interpretation, starting an education department from scratch, working with volunteer docents and educators, and more. Participants are encouraged to bring their issues and solutions and participate in discussions.
Chair: Tobi Voigt, Director of Education and Interpretation, Detroit Historical Society, Detroit, MI; Sharron Conrad, Curator of Education, The Sixth Floor Museum at Dealey Plaza, Dallas, TX; Callie P. Hawkins, Curator of Education, President Lincoln's Cottage, Washington, DC; Tim Hoogland, Director of Education Outreach, Minnesota Historical Society, St. Paul, MN; Alexandra Rasic, Public Programs Manager, Homestead Museum, City of Industry, CA; Christopher Shires, Director of Interpretation and Programs, Edsel and Eleanor Ford House, Gross Pointe Shores, MI

Empowering Small Museums on Main Street, USA
Room: 155B
Exhibitions and humanities programs in community-based museums help connect people to the place they call home. Come hear about a Smithsonian exhibition project that inspires a fresh look at local history and how hands-on facilitated training by the Utah Humanities Council leaves staff and volunteers of small museums with the knowledge and skills needed to create vibrant interpretive exhibits that inspire local audiences to learn and be proud of their own history.
Chair: Carol Harsh, Director, Museum on Main Street, Smithsonian Institution, Washington, DC; Travis Schenck, Director, Museum of Moab, Moab, UT; Karen Stark, Board Member, Utah Museums Association, Ogden, UT; Megan van Frank, Historical and Museum Programs Officer, Utah Humanities Council, Salt Lake City, UT

Corporations Connecting with Their Community
► Room: 155B
Corporate museums and archives collect and interpret the history of business. While often structured as a branch of their parent companies, corporate museums can offer valuable resources to other museums and the general community. This session will focus on what kind of resources corporate museums and archives have available and what we can do within the community. Speakers will talk about their experiences working within the museum community and with the general public. At the end of the day, there will be an open forum to encourage dialogue about what works and what doesn’t within corporate museums.
Chair: Tiffany Meng, Director, Delta Air Transport Heritage Museum, Atlanta, GA; Patricia LaBounty, Outreach and Collections Manager, Union Pacific Railroad Museum, Council Bluffs, IA; Toni Nagel, Director, Visitor Services Program, King Ranch, Kingsville, TX

Facilitating Conversations with Visitors
► Room: 255B
Our audiences expect to be part of the conversation, but how do we make that happen? What are the skills that museum professionals need to facilitate conversations? Three experienced facilitators will review the basics of facilitation, work with participants to identify attributes of good facilitation, and give participants a chance to practice their skills.
Chair: Sandra Clark, Director, Michigan Historical Center, Lansing, MI; Conny Graff, Principal, Conny Graff Research and Evaluation, Williamsburg, VA; Mark Howell, Principal, Howell Consulting, Williamsburg, VA

Places of Note: Musical Venues as Windows on History

Context Is the Key: Exploring Meaning and Relevance at Sites of Tragedy
► Room: 355D
How does the passage of time alter how we remember events that hold broad meaning for communities? This roundtable uses case studies to explore how we memorialize the past and create relevance at sites of tragedy. Breakout sessions address how these lessons apply to any history deemed uncomfortable or challenging. This session supported by The International Coalition of Sites of Conscience.
Chair: Sharron Wilkins Conrad, Curator of Education, The Sixth Floor Museum at Dealey Plaza, Dallas, TX; Clifford Chanin, Director of Education and Programs, National September 11 Memorial and Museum, New York, NY; Sarah Jencks, Director of Education, Ford’s Theatre Society, Washington, DC; Lynne Roller, Director of Education and Research, Oklahoma City National Memorial and Museum, Oklahoma City, OK

Do History Museums Still Need Objects?
► Room: 155E
This session, based on the History News article “Do History Museums Still Need Objects?” (download at bit.ly/HNColleCtions), considers seven major issues facing museums as they seek to make their collections meaningful and accessible to the public. Join us to discuss these issues and how they affect your daily work.
Chair: Rainey Tisdale, Independent Curator, Rolindale, MA; Lynne Ireland, Deputy Director, Nebraska State Historical Society, Lincoln, NE; Trevor Jones, Director, Museum Collections and Exhibitions, Kentucky Historical Society, Frankfort, KY; Linda Norris, Principal, Riverhill, Treadwell, NY

Marketing, Education, and Access: Perspectives on Web Resources
► Room: 355B
This session will explore how historical organizations are using websites for marketing, collections access, and educational purposes, where these functions diverge and intersect. The panelists will lead a discussion with the audience on how which use, if any, should lead and when, and how the others can support.
Chair: Mike Frohlich, Multimedia Developer/ Web Manager, North Dakota State Historical Society, Bismarck, ND; Steve Bronmage, Deputy Director, Maine Historical Society, Portland, ME; Jamie Glavic, Strategic Projects Coordinator, National Underground Railroad Freedom Center, Cincinnati, OH; Stacia Kucyeski, CEO of Creative Learning Factory at Ohio Historical Society, Columbus, OH

Putting Meat on the Bones: Using Genealogy to Personalize History
► Room: 155C
History and family history, or genealogy, go hand-in-hand, supporting and enriching each other. This panel will discuss their experiences using family history in historical research and writing in order to more fully understand the subject. Suggestions will be given on how to incorporate genealogical sources in historical research.
Chair: Laurie Hillier, Research Consultant, US/Canada Reference, Salt Lake City, UT; Dr. L. Teresa Church, Independent Archivist Consultant, Durham, NC; Craig L. Foster, Research Consultant, Family History Library, Salt Lake City, UT

Reenactments: Solid Interpretation or Edu-tainment?
► Room: 155B
History is a blend of truth and fancy, or what professional educators may distinguish as “fact” and “interpretation.” Historical reenactments carried out before our eyes more or less on the “scared field” or on the television or movie screen too often fades our ability to be analytical instead our judgment is swayed by emotional engagement with the past—real or fictionalized.
Chair: Gary Walrath, Executive Director, Rocky Mountain Historical Association and Museum, Pinney Flats, TN; Gordon Blaker, Director/ Curator, US Army Artillery Museum, Ft. Sill, OK; David Freece, Museum Director, Cowlitz County Historical Museum, Kelso, WA

Re-imagining Historic Sites: Three Roads to the Same Destination
► Room: 255A
The declining economy, changing audiences, and a renewed emphasis on mission and impact are prompting many historic sites and house museums to consider new ways to be more relevant and engaging. Learn how three organizations have rethought their historic sites through visitor research, expert charettes, and community workshops. Discover what worked (and what didn’t).
Chair: Max A. van Balgooy, President, Engaging Places, LLC, Rockville, MD; Barbara Campagna, FAIA, LEED, AP BD+C, Principal, Barbara A. Campagna Architecture and Planning, Washington, DC; Conny Graft, Principal, Conny C. Graft Research and Evaluation, Williamsburg, VA; Gwendolen Raley, Museum and Heritage Tourism Director, Indiana Landmarks, Indianapolis, IN

The West: Where Women and the Law Meet
► Room: 355A
This session will present research about women’s legal history in Utah and the American West and lead a forum exploring how it can be used in exhibits and historic site interpretation. Particular areas of focus include early women lawyers in Utah, and the arrest of women under Utah’s polygamy laws. Sponsored by the AASLH Court and Legal History Affinity Group.
Chair: Dr. Elizabeth R. Osborn, Assistant to the Chief Justice for Court History and Public Education, Indiana Supreme Court, Indianapolis, IN; Professor Kathryn Daynes, Assistant Professor, Department of History, Brigham Young University, Provo, UT; Kathleen Gilbert, Attorney, Gilbert Law Office, Bountiful, UT; Carol Madsen, Professor Emeritus, History, Brigham Young University, Salt Lake City, UT; Lisa M. CONCURRENT SESSIONS

2013 Annual Meeting Roundtable
► Room: 155E
We want to hear from you! The program committee for the 2013 AASLH Annual Meeting in Birmingham, AL, wants to hear your ideas for our next meeting. What did you like about the meeting? What should we have done differently? Members of the 2013 Annual Meeting program committee should attend. All meeting attendees are welcome.
Chair: Katherine Kane, Executive Director, Harriet Beecher Stowe Center, Hartford, CT; Bob Beatty, Vice President for Programs, AASLH, Nashville, TN

The Changing Web: The Future of the (History) Website
► Room: 355A
How are websites changing in the future? What should history organizations be doing to ensure the broadest access and maximum engagement? From the rise of user-generated content to the explosion of mobile technology, we will ponder the changing landscape of the Internet. Attendees will be invited to join in the discussion.

Developing Coalitions Among Small Museums
► Room: 255C
Panelists from small history museums in Phoenix’s East Valley will present their experiences in collaborating to create a coalition among regional history museums which has strengthened each institution. This coalition, the East Valley Museum Coalition, has combined the assets and skills of different organizations to produce exhibits, share collections, and improve community engagement.
Chair: Brian Crockett, Independent Professional, Albuquerque, NM; Lisa Anderson, President and CEO, Mesa Historical Museum, Mesa, AZ; Jody Crago, Museum Administrator, Chandler Museum, Chandler, AZ

Historic Places as Museums: Crossroads of Expectations
► Room: 155D
Using historic properties to teach history sounds like a win-win as a historic site or local museum. However, historic properties became a crossroads of people with certain expectations and places intentionally constructed with others. Learn about considerations in redesigning historic places as sites or small museums.
Chair: David Grabitske, Manager of Outreach Services, Minnesota Historical Society, St. Paul, MN; Diane Adams-Graf, Historic Properties Manager, Minnesota Historical Society, St. Paul, MN; Pat Miller, Executive Director, Illinois Heritage Association, Champaign, IL
Lyres and Tires and Barns, Oh My! Using Nomenclature 3.0 for Museum Cataloging

Room: 355B
As museums turn to technology to share their collections, cataloging standards are more important than ever. Learn how the recently published Nomenclature 3.0 for Museum Cataloging is meeting this need. Panelists will discuss Nomenclature’s new structure, format, conventions, and general use. Learn how the accompanying website and other supplementary materials can help museums adopt Nomenclature 3.0.

Chair: Dr. Lorraine McConaghy, Public Historian, Museum of History and Industry, Seattle, WA; Tara McCauley, Education and Youth Programs Manager, MOHAI, Seattle, WA; Julia Swan, Manager of Programs and Community Engagement, MOHAI, Seattle, WA; Jeanne Thompson, Advancement Officer, MOHAI, Seattle, WA

Standing at the Crossroads of Diversity: Creating Pathways to Employment for Under-represented Communities

Room: 155B
Most organizations make commitments to staff diversity in their strategic plans, but these aspirations often fail to be realized. This session will look at how the Minnesota Historical Society has developed replicable strategies for pre-professional development that is creating pathways to employment for minority and American Indian students.

Chair: Tim Hoogland, Director of Education Outreach Programs, Minnesota Historical Society, St. Paul, MN; Kyle Parsons, Diversity Outreach Program Associate, Minnesota Historical Society, St. Paul, MN; Bradley Sam, Program Supervisor, Mille Lacs Indian Museum and Trading Post Site, Minnesota Historical Society, Onamia, MN; Chris Taylor, Diversity Outreach Programs Manager, Minnesota Historical Society, St. Paul, MN; Travis Zimmerman, Mille Lacs Indian Museum and Trading Post Site Manager and Indian Affairs Liaison, Minnesota Historical Society, Onamia, MN

Visitors to Religious Sites: The Whos and Why's

Room: 255A
By examining sites associated with Mormon history, discover how historic properties associated with a variety of faith traditions might expand their mission and attract new audiences. The session will focus on three specific roles played by religious properties: pilgrimage sites, destinations of historic interest, and places of community gathering. Sponsored by the AASLH Religious History Affinity Group.

Chair: Karen Graham Wade, Director, Homestead Museum, City of Industry, CA; Gary L. Boatright, Jr., Historic Sites Curator, LDS Church History Department, Salt Lake City, UT; Melissa Bingmann, Assistant Professor, Director of Public History, West Virginia University, Morgantown, WV; Barbara B. Walden, Executive Director, Community of Christ Historic Sites Foundation, Lexington, KY

Reinventing Your Museum: New Audiences, Great Expectations

Room: 355D
Faced with impending demolition, Seattle’s Museum of History and Industry (MOHAI) began a daring reinvention. This panel discussion will feature managers from the Public Programs, Education and Youth Programs, Exhibits, and Advancement Departments each of whom will candidly share their experiences in re-visioning an established historical society and metropolitan museum.

Chair: Paul Bourcier, Chief Curator, Wisconsin Historical Society, Madison, WI; Trevor Jones, Director of Museum Collections and Exhibitions, Kentucky Historical Society, Frankfort, KY; Sarah Kappelusch, Curator and Collections Manager, The History Museum at the Castle, Appleton, WI

A Measured Approach to Integrating Sustainability in History Organizations
► Room: 155A
For many organizations, integrating sustainability reduces impacts on the environment and saves operating costs. This forum introduces how organizations can evaluate sustainability and incorporate strategies that fit their needs. Attendees will work with different scenarios, which will demonstrate the benefits and accessibility of sustainability for large to small history organizations.
Chair: Shengyin Xu, LEED AP BD+C, Institutional Sustainability Specialist, Minnesota Historical Society, St. Paul, MN; Matt Hill, Manager, Arts and Cultural Heritage Fund, Minnesota Historical Society, St. Paul, MN

Communities and Archives: Exploring New Uses for Old Records
► Room: 355D
Local records can be found in state, university, or government archives. The panelists will discuss interpretations of community past and present through traditional and dynamic new uses of local records. Panelists will highlight the multiple research uses and the challenges in educating new audiences in the uses of these records.
Chair: Karri Krattley, Archives Manager, Salt Lake County Archives, West Valley City, UT; Paula Mitchell, CA, University Archivist, Southern Utah University; Gerald R. Sharratt Library, Cedar City, UT; Sharon Silengo, CA, Photograph Archivist, State Historical Society of North Dakota, Bismarck, ND

From Sustenance to Relevance: Reinterpreting Food, Place, and Local History
► Room: 255D
Food history is a powerful pathway to community connections. Transcending nostalgia, local history museums can serve as educational clearinghouses for vital knowledge that not only illuminates the past and celebrates place, but demonstrates relevance today and generates solutions for community resilience in the face of future challenges. Sponsored by the National Council on Public History.
Chair: Michelle Moon, Assistant Director of Education for Adult Programs, Peabody Essex Museum, Salem, MA; John Forti, Curator of Historic Gardens and Landscapes, Strawbery Banke Museum, Portsmouth, NH; Cathy Stanton, Lecturer, Tufts University, Wendell, MA

Women's Suffrage was won twice in Utah. First in 1870 by the territorial legislature but revoked by Congress in 1887, and then restored in 1895 when the right to vote and hold office was written into the constitution of the new state.
Growing Awareness and Creating Change: Museums and the Disability Community

Room: 155D
On July 26, 1990, Congress passed the Americans with Disabilities Act, the disability community’s civil rights act. Today, museums are only beginning to realize the implications of creating environments that connect to people with disabilities. Panelists will discuss their efforts to commit to full accessibility and challenge other museums to do the same.

Chair: Sharon Smith, Curator of Civic and Personal Identity, Missouri History Museum, St. Louis, MO; Colleen Kelly Stackloff, Co-Director, Stackloff Disability Institute, St. Louis, MO; Whitney Watson, Senior Exhibition Designer, Missouri History Museum, St. Louis, MO; Jennifer Wolff, Manager, Interpretation, Missouri Botanical Gardens, St. Louis, MO

Secrets from the Lodge: Identifying and Demystifying Fraternal Objects

Room: 355A
By 1900, over 250 American fraternal groups existed, numbering six million members. The regalia, badges, souvenirs, and ritual objects used by these groups have made their way to local historical societies and museums ever since. This session will offer practical information on how to identify, interpret, and exhibit the Masonic and fraternal objects in your collection.

Localizing Difficult Histories

Room: 155C
Want to broaden your impact with your communities? This session examines how programming and exhibitions related to slavery, nuclear weapons, the Holocaust, and even controversy itself have been used to successfully engage local communities with histories that extend far beyond their borders, yet may hit much closer than they realize.

Chair: Cynthia Capers, Associate Director of Education and Changing Exhibitions, Holocaust Museum Houston, Houston, TX; Jason Crabbil, Manager, Curatorial Services, Ohio Historical Society, Columbus, OH; Jamie Glavic, Strategic Projects Coordinator, National Underground Railroad Freedom Center, Cincinnati, OH; Mark Sundlow, Site Supervisor, Ronald Reagan Minuteman Missile State Historic Site, Cooperstown, ND

Meshing Mission and Community: Identifying Strategies for Engagement

Room: 355B
Engaging your community can be a challenge when the neighbors think that local history doesn’t matter of they can visit anytime (so why visit today?). Three history organizations of vastly different sizes and types share what’s worked (and what hasn’t) to uncover the ingredients for success and identify next step for your museum.

Chair: Max van Balgooy, President, Engaging Places, LLC, Rockville, MD; Rachel Desgroseillers, Executive Director, Museum

Serious Play: Interpreting History for Young Audiences

Room: 255A
Most of us want to engage young audiences with history at our sites and museums, but what are we really hoping they’ll get from these programs? When those audiences are preliterate, what, if anything, can we hope they’ll learn? When they’re older (and a little surly) how can we get them truly interested? Panelists will share the results of two pilot projects, one geared toward four- to seven-year-olds and the other to high school students, to get the conversation started.

Chair: Laura Kolasinski, Senior Program Specialist, Heritage Philadelphia Program, Philadelphia, PA; Maria Moller, Artist, Philadelphia, PA; Dan Spock, Director of History Center Museum, Minnesota Historical Society, St. Paul, MN

Telling a Good Story

Room: 355C
This session will focus on the importance of finding key stories to engage audiences at history museums and historic sites. Using models from within and outside the field, we will discuss why stories matter, what makes a good story, and how to engage our organizations in the development of compelling stories.

Chair: Linda Norris, The Uncataloged Museum, Treadwell, NY

Gems in the Rough: Mining Social Media for Local History Information
Room: 355A
Learn to use social media in an entirely new way: as a source of raw history content, ready to refine into compelling museum projects. This session delves into real user-generated content from several platforms to reveal the power of social media to create genuine multi-vocal conversations about place and the past.
Chair: Michelle Moon, Assistant Director of Education for Adult Programs, Peabody Essex Museum, Salem, MA; Jamie Glavic, Strategic Projects Coordinator, National Underground Railroad Freedom Center, Cincinnati, OH

Journey for Justice: Local History, Civil Rights, and the Power of Place
Room: 155D
This sixty-minute documentary on the work of the late New Orleans civil rights attorney, Alexander Pierre Trudeau, Sr. will be followed by a discussion with his son, A.P. Trudeau, Jr. and historian Rachel Emanuel. The power of place was, in turn, the source of power for civil rights change led by Trudeau, Sr., who worked to better Louisiana rather than move north or accept Jim Crow oppression.
Chair: Jessica Dorman, Director of Publications, The Historic New Orleans Collection, New Orleans, LA; Rachel Emanuel, Ph.D., Director, Communications and Development Support, Southern University Law Center, Baton Rouge, LA; A.P. Trudeau, Jr., Educational Consultant, Ridgefield, CT

Integrating a National Institution with the Local Community
Room: 355C
This session will explore the unique opportunities and challenges presented for national museums located outside of the typical geographic areas for national institutions, such as Washington, DC, or New York. Specific themes that will be addressed are: audience attraction and retention, interpretation, fundraising, and community perception and marketing.
Chair: Dina Bailey, Director of Exhibitions and Collections, National Underground Railroad Freedom Center, Cincinnati, OH; David Mandel, Curator of Exhibits, Hubbard Museum of the American West, Ruidoso Downs, NM; Leslie Mooney, Manager of Corporate and Foundation Relations, National Underground Railroad Freedom Center, Cincinnati, OH

Long Term Sustainability Issues with Online Reference Works
Room: 255A
If you have an online encyclopedia or other reference work, or plan on starting one in the future, join members of the Internet Digital Encyclopedia Alliance for conversation, networking, and lots of ideas. The program will include an update on activities of AASLH’s IDEA group as well as reports on digital projects around the country. The roundtable
